White Collar, Compliance and Investigations >

Noel Power is a criminal defence and investigations lawyer with a particular focus on multi-jurisdictional white collar crime, corruption and internal investigations. He advises corporates, financial institutions and individuals in complex cross-border investigations and prosecutions, both domestically and cross-border, as suspects and as witnesses. He regularly advises clients on interactions with relevant national authorities including the UK Serious Fraud Office, the UK National Crime Agency, the police and the UK Financial Conduct Authority.

Mr. Power has represented clients in sectors as diverse as finance, mining, and transport advising on and defending against allegations of bribery, corruption, money laundering and fraud.

Mr. Power previously worked as a financial regulation and litigation associate at two international law firms and as criminal lawyer at a firm based in Ireland.
